

FROM THE TOWER TO THE TOWN

Whenever you drive into a small town, one of the first things you will notice is a water tower. A water tower is a big tank which holds clean water at the ready. When someone in the town turns on their faucet to get a glass of water, it will have come from there. But how does it travel from the tower, into the town?

In the space below, draw out your town as it is described by the teacher.

In the space below draw your second town, this time with no hill.
